Education as we know it is under threat, and students are fighting back like never before. I'm proud to work alongside such vibrant and inspirational people during a time when our movement can only get stronger. But I believe the NEC should be more visible in this fight, as at the moment, most students don't even know what the NEC is.

The voice of FE students is often lost within NUS. The trend is changing, with strong leadership that understands the unbridled passion that resides within the sector, but we're still massively under-represented at every level. FE students need someone to shout for them, not only as a VP, but on the committees that really make a difference.

I think I could be that someone.

Speaking for students as a student.

We as a movement lose too many brilliant people, particularly during the transition from FE to HE. It has to stop. Now.

Retention

Support available whenever, wherever.

Everyone deserves a response.

A visible, accessible NEC

Action outside your allocation.

FE focused campaigns

Providing the right resources and support at the right time for FE unions.

Active communication

Emails are not enough.
